

PACIFIC COAST COLLEGE TEAMS TOURING THE MIDDLE WEST

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 22.—The invasion of eastern and middle western varsity fields by Pacific coast college teams, as exemplified by the California and Stanford track athletes this season, will be conducted upon a broader scale next spring. Representatives of the far coast universities now in the east are planning for a series of competitions in various lines of sport which will surpass anything attempted in this direction in past years.

Graduate Manager E. C. Behrens is authority for the statement that the Stanford University baseball team will play a number of games in the east and west during a tour to be made in May and June. The Stanford squad, consisting of about fifteen men, will leave May 10 and play games with all the leading college and university nines, during its tour to the Atlantic coast, including Michigan, Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Columbia and other institutions. The itinerary of the team, which is now being arranged by Nat Strong of this city, will include a number of commencement day games in the east.

Coach Hiram Conibear of the University of Washington crews, who has arrived here for the intercollegiate and Harvard-Yale regatta, is planning to invade Poughkeepsie next June with an eight-oared varsity crew which is said to be the fastest ever developed at Washington, so far as can be judged from the material and performance of the season just closed. Stanford also desires to race on the Hudson again in 1917 and it may be that both crews will take part in the regatta of next year, unless it should be shown that one is considerably superior to the other.

The Intercollegiate and Conference Athletic Association officials have been given to understand that Stanford, California and possibly a third Pacific coast university track team will try for eastern honors in 1917, provided the athletic material in sight performs up to the marks expected by the coaches. A football game of some between one or more of the leading eastern eleven and a university team from California or the northwest is also among the possibilities. Correspondence looking toward such a contest is under way and the indications are favorable at this time.

NO RACE MEETINGS HELD IN COLORADO

GOVERNOR CARLSON HOLDS LAW
PROHIBITS ALL FORMS OF WAGERS

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, June 22.—Differences regarding the conduct of race meets between Governor Carlson and members of the State Racing commission have led to the virtual abandonment of activity on the part of the commission, according to an announcement by J. A. Burnett, chairman. As a result, it was added, no attempt will be made to arrange race meets in conjunction with fairs and plans for the annual fall running meet at Overland park in Denver have also been dropped.

Racing programs will, however, be a feature of county fairs throughout the state as formerly, but the conduct of the events will be left solely with local officials.

Following the passage of a law by the last general assembly providing for horse racing in Colorado and creating a commission to supervise it, announcement was made that betting under the pari-mutuel system would be permitted. A running meeting was arranged in Denver last summer and the betting machines were used.

Later Governor Carlson announced that wagering in any form was illegal and in this connection demanded the resignation of certain members of the commission. No resignations were tendered, however, and no further action was taken.

VICTIM OF WOOD TICKS

John Martin, a well-known teamster of Winnemucca, passed away Monday morning from spotted fever, after an illness of ten days. It is thought that the disease was the result of tick bites received a short time ago while deceased was working at a Grass Valley mine.
